COTOPAXI NATIONAL PARK & QUILOTOA LAKE (3 days/2 night)

Day 1 Quito / Cotopaxi

Departure from Quito and after driving south for 1 and a half hours on the Pan-American highway we reach the park entrance of Cotopaxi National Park. We drive through pine forest and ascent until we reach the highest point of the tour, 4.500 meters/15.000 feet.

Hiking at the Cotopaxi National Park is an incredibly beautiful and rewarding experience and a popular destination for visitors looking to hike, climb and trek, or enjoy stunning panoramas from down below. Cotopaxi's ecosystem is home to a wide variety of flora and fauna, including the unique combination of pine vegetation and wolves, pumas, bears, rabbits, condors, wild horses, and foxes.

Lunch in Tambopaxi

In the afternoon we continuous to Hacienda Porvenir.

Dinner and accommodation.

Day 2: Horseback riding

We ride close to herds of wild horses and fighting bulls. We can also see various species of high-altitude birds (condors are frequently spotted) and native flora against a backdrop of spectacular scenery.

Some rides take us up to 4,200m. Near the summit of Rumiñahui, from where there is a unique, unbeatable view of Cotopaxi. After relishing the freedom of nature at its wildest and enjoying the exhilaration of galloping with the pure wind of the high Andes. The rides take us inside the exclusive trails of our Hacienda at the majestic páramos and native forest of the Cotopaxi area, where our native guides intertwine legends, history and tradition in their tales.
